Your iPad, Your Way - Belkin Introduces FlipBlade™ and Grip 360° + Stand

- Portable case and stand solutions celebrate the multifunctional use of the iPad
- Belkin's stands and cases maximise portability, allowing you to stay always connected and mobile

(Rushden, UK) – 3 November, 2010 – Belkin, the recognised leader in connecting people and technology, has today announced the launch of the Grip 360° + Stand and FlipBlade™ – portable solutions that celebrate the multifunctional use of the iPad. With the new Belkin solutions, iPad devices can be manipulated into just about any position, enhancing the ability to quickly and fluidly interact with content.

The Grip 360° + Stand is an all-in-one solution that transforms three ways; a carrying case, a handheld case, and a stand. A flexible hand strap provides a comfortable way to hold your iPad in your hand while you're on the go. The hand strap allows for easy 360 degree rotation to view content at any angle, and when you're at home or work, just remove the hand strap and attach the stand to position the iPad on any flat surface for comfortable viewing. The adjustable stand provides multiple viewing angles for gaming, reading, surfing the Web, or typing.

The slim FlipBlade™ is ultra-compact, providing solid support while boasting a sleek design. Its versatility enables you to view your iPad in either portrait or landscape orientation. It also opens easily for a quick setup, maximising your ability to use your iPad in a variety of ways and locations.

As an inherently portable platform, iPad users are interacting with content in different ways and in a variety of locations. These new Belkin solutions maximise freedom, providing many ways to experience content while allowing users to stay connected and mobile.
